- High level of risk / challenge within the family home or community that inhibits family's ability to support child in a consistent way
- Multiple additional needs with other children in the household
- Lack of opportunities for child to access the community due to behavioural differences, ability to cope with environment and other needs impacting on the child
- Changes in family circumstances that impacts on the support and care needs of the family
- Where there are circumstances that the referral team feels that short / medium term respite will prevent further escalation to crisis.

Types of support Episodes of Care

- Short term: Targeted breaks to support a specific period of difficulty / crisis / change in family circumstances. Typical range of support 6-12 weeks with review at this stage.
- Medium term: For families and children that require longer term support to improve family situation / give meaningful break. Typical range 12-24 weeks with review at this stage.
- Long term support: Where family circumstances / child(ren) needs are deemed to be severe and at a consistently high level Eg ; long term family capacity issues / child protection / severity of need of child (ren) as deemed by referral team / admission criteria. Typical range 6-12 months + review will be fixed at a time scale that reflects the ongoing circumstances but will be no more than 18 months.

Arrangements made for Consultation with families and Children

Meetings will be arranged with families and children referred to CONNECT to establish what activities the children would like to do and their aspirations

An individualized care plan will be developed in consultation with child, their family and the child's team following the consultation meeting.

The identified service will retain a copy of the care plan which will be reviewed annually or as required in consultation with parents and the child's team as appropriate. The support staff will be fully briefed on the care plan.
